

Our Daily Walk: Starting Your Day with Jesus

The bedside alarm had just announced the time - 6.00am - the time I got up every day to pray. And yet I was about to receive a startling word from God about my neglect of a specific aspect of prayer. The Lord breathed these words into my mind: You have forgotten the discipline of a daily devotional habit. He emphasised something that I had forgotten: the daily discipline of being alone with Jesus at a personal, intimate level. That was the issue. God wasn't charging me with being prayerless or impersonal in my relationship with Him, but He was letting me know that He wanted me to be renewed in a habit of disciplined, daily time with Him - and with just Him. So writes this highly respected leader of leaders, Jack Hayford, when introducing this challenging, practical, and thought-provoking book. Here is a message that we all need to learn to put into action.
