

Room 402 I havent told them about the meatloaf yet

A true story of a daughters journey through some of her parents most devastating periods of their lives. About courage, murder, forgiveness and love. A Korean war hero who kept his wounds locked deep inside, only to face an even more heartbreaking tragedy. How he would survive open heart surgery, and how the Doctors, Nurses, and staff would save his life three more times in the same hospital. The disbelief of a death sentence, not to be, would shock everyone. Also when ALS afflicted her mother, she lovingly began a three year chronicle of labor of love to care for her parents. Promises made to her dying mother would be made and kept, regardless of what or how long it took. About miracles and compassion, and finally, letting go of the past and offering forgiveness no matter how hard it was. About the strength of a man despite all he had been through, maintained his courage and dignity until the end. To honor her father and mother.
