

Blue the Black Fish: The Evolution of a Navy Seal

Brazen, irreverent, and unforgiving, the unpredictable Navy SEALs deploy on classified missions worldwide. Theodis Blue Springer, decided as a young man that he wanted to join this elite military unit. The path through Basic Underwater Demolition SEAL training is excruciating and has been shrouded in clandestine mystery.

Discover what it means to Ring Out and Get Wet through the eyes of Blue the Black Fish, an actual day-by-day journal of BUD/S class # 86. The physical requirements are extreme, picture a fourteen-mile, soft sand beach run. Glimpse the mental skills required to master scuba diving, handle explosives, and perform hydrographic reconnaissance. You will see the pictures of weapons training and the end result of a five-mile ocean swim where Blues eyes are nearly swollen shut from inflammation and fatigue. Enter the real world of US Navy SEAL training where the only easy day was yesterday.
