She just buried her father, and found shes a millionaire. Now it turns out shes a pawn in a battle between Gods and a Goddess. At least, thats what Sevani, the hottass who just kissed her within an inch of her life, says. And if an Immortal Watcher, like he tells her, then hed know. It sure seems plausible when bullets start flying, swords start swinging, and only half the fighters are trying to kill her. Shes just starting to get comfortable with Sevani (and falling for him) when she learns its probably not her hes been kissing: its probably the soul of his long-lost wife shes carrying. Now theres no one she can trust. Not Sevani. Not Valeria, Alexander, and Lei who fight alongside him. Not Freya, the Goddess who created the Watchers, who hides behind her pretty smiles. And certainly not her family, because its one of them who wants her dead. Can she stay alive long enough to learn who she can trust, and whether shes who Sevani loves?
