Stories in the Tattoos and Leather series
Book 1: Inked Book 2: Branded Book 3: Marked Book 4: Stranded Book 5: Owned

A ball-busting corporate attorney, Erika DuBois has been called an Ice Queen in truth, she's anything but that. Her secret desires would set any man ablaze. However, after growing up in a strict household with a dictator of a military father, Erika refuses to let any man get close enough to crack the wall she's built around herself. She will never let a man have control over her much less dominate her. Cousins Dawson and Holden Kennedy see right past Erika's icy outward demeanor. As soon as they meet her, they're determined to warm her up. After she takes the men to dinner to attempt to win their business account, Dawson and Holden have their opportunity. They are stranded with Erika during a freak ice and snowstorm, the worst storm in three decades in Colorado. Their alone time is the perfect opportunity to light Erika's fire. A little wine, the company of two gorgeous men, and a game of Truth or Dare, lead Erika straight down the rabbit hole to a place she never thought she'd go. Dawson and Holden break through her barriers and she welcomes the opportunity to turn over control to the dominant men. She's always been in control, always been responsible for so many things and she finds it liberating to let a man take charge. In this case, two men. When the storm is over, Erika is angry at herself for letting her control slip only because that puts her at a disadvantage in winning the Kennedys account and serving as their attorney. What had she been thinking? However, Holden and Dawson have other things on their minds, and that includes Erika having a place not just as their attorney, but being in their lives. Permanently.
