

Mountain Laurel: Grandmas Healing Place

After a traumatic incident that stole her childhood at thirteen years old, Laurel ran from the horrors of Ohio, with some help along the way, ending up on a mountain in Colorado. Grandma, the name she used for the old recluse on the mountain, took her in and together they helped each other heal. Laurel grew into a loving young woman but was unable to relax in the presence of men, any man. She feared that once her brother found out she was not dead, as she allowed the staged evidence to show, she would not be able to embrace him. With the help from Grandma, and the men from a cartage company, she slowly began taking the steps to the recovery she needed.

Chad Clifton, an equally tormented young man, would play a part in her recovery, but they would tell you that it was the love on the mountain that changed them.
