

In The Masters Eyes

Lakshmi the cow lived at the Ramana Maharshi ashram at the base of the holy mountain Arunachala. Believed to be the reincarnation of one of Sri Bhagavans most devoted disciples, Lakshmi was noted for her human-like attachment to the sage who held a special affection for her in return. It is said that at the moment of Lakshmis death, Ramana Maharshi helped her to attain her final Samadhi so that she realized the truth of the one Self. This story, told from Lakshmis point of view, In the Masters Eyes is the authors heartfelt tribute to this most poignant relationship in human existence that of spiritual aspirant to his or her guru.
