

Plan Your Own Business So You Can Make The Rules

Do you want to own a business? Great! You know that you are going to need to write a business plan, right? Seriously. In fact, you might end up writing more than one. Why? Because creating a business plan is the best way to organize your thoughts about your new business idea. It puts all of it in one spot and gives you a head start. It isn't hard either. I'll show you how. Without writing business plans, I would have failed. I wrote about 10 business plans before I ever made the big leap. But since I got it right, things are pretty cool. Being an entrepreneur has allowed me the freedom to do what I need to do, the freedom from other people's bad decisions, and the ability to earn the most money possible from my own efforts. I love it I also hate it. Starting a business isolated me from my friends, caused me to work roughly twice the hours I would have otherwise, and has, at times, put my entire financial future on the line. I found out that starting a business is a real son-of-a-bitch and I'm considered a success story. Owning a business is not to be taken lightly, so don't do it unless you are pretty sure it is going to work out. How do you determine if your business idea will work out? You write a business plan. That is what we are going to discuss here. Our goal is to give you the skills you need to analyze any business idea you have to determine if it will succeed. Eventually, I hope that you find one that will. In this short (about 40 pages) book we will: Discuss What A Business Plan Is Talk About The 8 Parts of A Business Plan Learn How to Complete All 8 Steps Learn How to Analyze What it All Means You will very quickly learn to refine your business idea so that it has the best chance of success, decide if it will succeed and get a jump start in launching your successful business.
