

Maxwells House (Peter Maxwell Mystery)

The derelict house on the edge of the sleepy seaside town was a haven for courting couples, down-and-outs and someone with altogether more sinister intentions. It was there that they found the corpse of 17-year-old Jenny Hyde. She had been strangled. Peter Mad Max Maxwell didn't have to become involved at all. But one of his pupils had been murdered and Maxwell took it personally. However, his efforts to discover the truth about Jenny's death landed the genial Head of Sixth in deeper trouble than he could ever have thought possible.
