

Love, The Critic

A Traditional Regency romance set in England, 1814...Elizabeth Tate once dreamed of being a poet until her first volume of poetry received scathing reviews from someone known only as The Critic. Now, she simply wants to forget her humiliating past. And she's willing to consider an offer of marriage from a man she's never met, her neighbor, Alexander Jameson, Marquess of Langley if it will let her close that door. Unfortunately, she soon discovers Alexander has such high standards that no one could possibly be good enough for him. And it comes as no surprise to learn he is The Critic who mocked her work. But Alexander knows Elizabeth's true worth, both as a poet and a woman. And he sets out to prove to her that excellence and love are both worth striving for.
